

Newsweek ~ Quora Question: What Is It Like To Live in Hong Kong's Cubicle Apartments?

Photo: en.wikipedia.org

Quora Questions are part of a partnership between Newsweek and Quora, through which we'll be posting relevant and interesting answers from Quora contributors throughout the week. Read more about the partnership here.

Answer from David Yu.

It's a different mind set. I lived in Hong Kong for 12 years, and in the U.S. for 17 years (different cities/suburban). Most of the cities feel like a giant Monopoly game, but no other city comes close to Hong Kong. Everything is tighter in Hong Kong; it's important to have a good concept of caching your stuff (not in a computer programming way, but similar).

Read more: <http://www.newsweek.com/hong-kongs-cubicle-apartments>